

Chamee and Lissie
Updated Project Proposal

We have created the welcoming screen with all the appropriate buttons for our user to click and we have written the codes for our math game (still need to make our buttons work). We have written out the story arc for our users to choose from.

We still need to make the math game pop up in the same window (as it pops up in another window when clicked) and we are trying to figure out hangman. As it is proving to be a bit more challenging than anticipated, we may be modifying it to riddles the user must answer. The last is putting the story arc into the game.

